The ABCs of Love

"Hatred stirs up strife, but love covers all transgression" (Proverbs 10:12)

"I accept you as you are"

"I believe you are valuable."

"I care when you hurt."

"I desire only what is best for you."

"I erase all offenses."

We could call that the ABC's of love. And I don't know of anybody who would turn his back on such magnetic, encouraging statements.

There is nothing shallow about authentic love. Nor is it a magic wand we whip out and wave over a problem with a whoosh, hoping all the pain will go away. Real love has staying power. Authentic love is tough love. It refuses to look for ways to run away. It always opts for working through. It doesn't cop out because the sea gets stormy and rough. It's fibrous and resilient...While the world around us gives the opposite counsel, love stands firm.

His Life Hid in Your Heart

Week 7: Jesus and Joseph Dan Jenkins

Wow! This week's devotionals are really impressive. I've got to be honest, without 'naming names' there have been a couple of times when I wondered if the authors of each week stayed on the topic they had been assigned. Some veered off into their own world of ideas or subjects, and while they were still helpful I was left wondering what they could have said about the stuff they were supposed to be writing about! That's not the case this week.

In finding comparisons between Jesus and Joseph, Dan Winkler makes some wonderful connections. I've always been impressed with Dan's ability to highlight messages in the Scriptures—he has a keen grasp of the 'big picture' that enables him to bring out the patterns weaving through particular passages. This week is no different, and you might be surprised at the similarities he illustrates in our readings. I hope they are an encouragement...

Spend a few minutes each day with these great lessons, and you'll be blessed. Do it every day, and it will change your life!

With Love, Adam
